THE PROPOSALS lately Publish'd for Translating and Printing the Dialogues of Don Antonio Agostino, Archbishop of Taragona, explaining the Use of Medals, Inscriptions, and other Antiquities, have occasion'd the setting forth of this small Catalogue of Medals for the Information of many, who now begin to be sensible of the Usefulness of this Study. It is known to have been collected by as able a Hand as any of his Time, and has been since preserv'd in the Library of a Gentleman, to whom the Publick is now indebted for it, as a Person truly communicative, and ever ready to encourage whatsoever is for the Advancement of Literature, and more particularly the above-mention'd excellent Work of Don Antonio Agostino, which is the very Master-piece of all that has been writ in Relation to Medals; the Use whereof is such, that, without it, History would be robb'd of its noblest Ornament, and want many most remarkable Passages of the Lives and Actions of the greatest Men, not to mention its singular Use for ascertaining the Chronology of many Events, which we should not otherwise know where to fix. In short, the learned Archbishop made this sort of Knowledge valuable, not only in his own Country, where he publish'd his Book in Spanish, but in most others: the same having been translated into Latin and Italian: But as those who do understand all, or either of the said Languages, may, perhaps, find a greater Facility or Gust in their own; so those, who have not attain'd the Advantage of foreign Tongues, will be led into a delightful Reading, they might have otherwise been unacquainted with; besides that, the Latin and Italian Translations are not common, and the Original Spanish is not to be found. This Catalogue is not without its Value, as showing first what Medals were struck in those remote Times, when they were the common Coin of the Empire, and now for their scarcity, carefully kept in the Closets of the greatest Princes; and in the next place acquainting all with the Value that may be put upon every Medal, since that depends not on the Metal or Weight; but on the Degree of its Rarity. Medals, like other Things, when common, bearing little more Price than the Worth of the Gold or Silver, whereas one in Brass, if fair and scarce to be found, may be sold at a very great Rate. This is laying open a Mystery that few are acquainted with, and making that easy and familiar which requir'd much Study and Application; and this Particular having been omitted by Don Antonio Agostino, the Publishing of it by it self, will be the perfecting of that great Work. It is to be observ'd, that a great Number of Otho's being said to be found in Italy, since the writing of this Catalogue, those Medals will, it is likely, become less rare.

PROPOSALS

For Printing Eleven DIALOGUES, explaining the Use of MEDALS, Inscriptions and other Antiquities.
